,As an important fashion accessory in winter, scarves never miss the opportunities to show off in different styles. Many fashion addicts love to play with scarves in cold weather so that they can obtain their uniqueness. Originally, scarf is purely used to protect the neck against cold weather. Gradually, the function and usage become versatile. In addition to the basic function, fashion accessory is another important role of scarf nowadays. Different types of scarf can be used in various ways, such as headband, waistband as well as decorations of handbags. You can change a colorful thin short scarf into an exclusive headband creatively. In another way, you can also use this scarf to tie a ponytail, which makes you look energetic and young. You don't have to go to the market looking for one on purpose but can cut your old used scarf into this kind of scarf by yourself. Many fashion magazines have already introduced the usage of waistband. If you want to wear tight jeans but don't want to look boring, then you can use a silk printing scarf to tie around your waist instead of a belt to create a romantic style. Hermes scarf would be the best choice. When you are tired of your black bags and want to have something different, a scarf with outstanding patterns will help you a lot. Tying such a scarf to the buckle of the bag will immediately revitalize this boring bag and make you fall in love with again. For this season, animal prints are the most popular patterns. You can consider buying a scarf with this kind of pattern. You can fully exert your imagination to create your own way to wear a scarf. During this process, you will obtain a lot of fun and be more sensitive to fashion.,, Handbags and bags occupy a very prominent position in the style statement of people. The product quality and satisfaction is inexplicable, and once a person tastes the class of such excellent brand, they are sure to become loyal to the respective brand.,,Handbag styles are now very diversified and they fall in and out of trend quite frequently. Though handbag is not one of the key components of your outfit, it still affects your overall outlook as much as a pair of shoes, jeans or blouse. Choosing the suitable and appropriate handbag goes beyond just the matching colors. There are quite a few things to consider, such as shape, size and length of the handbag. Here I will explain on how these factors will influence the impact a handbag has on you.

Shape,Handbag is something different from clothing, where it stands out from your body figure. This makes the shape of a handbag important that can have such a powerful visual impact. Try to get one that is exact opposite of what your body type is. This is to complement your body type. If you are short, get a handbag that is taller to enhance your vertical look. A vertical handbag not only makes you look taller but it also helps you look slimmer, since it directs the viewer's eyes on the vertical rather than on the horizontal. On the other hand, if you are tall and thin, you might want to get a rounder handbag.

Size,The other factor to consider when shopping for a handbag is the size of the handbag. If you are small and thin, try not to carry huge bags that will look disproportionate to your body. On the other hand, if you have a few extra pounds, you might not want to stress that with a bag that is barely visible and seems more like a toy rather than a real handbag.

Length,The length of the handles is also important, medium sized handles work best in all cases. In general, long handles and a vertically oriented handbag make you look slimmer.

Handbag Types,There are several handbag types that you can choose from. Hobo bags are popular shoulder bags that offer a nice round shape and a lot of interior room. Satchels are large handled bags that offer a lot of room but are less elegant. Clutch bag, which is very small and fancy, mostly used for evening wear and other special occasions. Duffle bag takes us back to the larger sized category, while the field bag is sportier and is a flap top shoulder bag. Hermes style bags are structured in shape and they have select closures that are intentionally visible. Tote handbags are highly popular. They have handles or straps, depending on the model, and are open top bags. Messenger style bags are mostly shoulder bags and are usually worn across the body. There is one final element to consider when shops for handbags: Will this handbag suit your lifestyle? Do not get an elegant and fragile bag if you are used to carry a lot of stuff in it and going through subway traffic everyday. Make the choice that will complement your life style in the best way and make the most out of enjoying your shopping experience.,,

The reason for this is not because LinkedIn isn’t valuable. Instead, it’s just hard to make time for it, Facebook, Twitter, Google+, and all the other sites that demand so much time. Do you find yourself struggling to make time for LinkedIn? The site is often equated with finding a job, and while this is a very big part of LinkedIn, it’s not everything. According to, LinkedIn’s Connections Director and founder of WORKS by Nicole Williams, the professional network should be viewed as a “career toolbox.” “Where it may end up being deemed as forgotten is that people don’t realize how helpful it is in your day-to-day career development,” she said.

“LinkedIn is designed to help you in your career totality.” “It’s not just to be used at the point in which you’re looking at a job,” Williams added. As she pointed out, LinkedIn should be used in continuous career development. It’s full of news, forums, and groups that could create valuable opportunities. The relationships and connections that are made on LinkedIn can play a significant role in helping people get into their desired careers. Facebook, Twitter, and Google+ are all useful in their own way, but they are very different from LinkedIn. Facebook, specifically, covers a user’s entire life (especially once the new official rolls out) from personal vacation pictures to fun activities and events that the user participates in. LinkedIn, however, is different because it offers a professional forum to individuals. As Williams explained, it provides “distilled information,” which is necessary for a professional environment. The company also has features such as LinkedIn Today that helps users stay up-to-date on industries they are interested in. In addition, LinkedIn recently introduced to its service that allows users to display their charity involvement right along with their work experience. Based on a survey the company conducted, 41 percent of the respondents said that they considered volunteer work just as valuable as paid work experience. Williams told us that this new feature is especially beneficial in this economy, since so many people aren’t able to work in jobs that are reflective of their true passions. The Causes field now allows them to actually for their volunteer experience. “You have to set yourself apart,” said Williams. “What LinkedIn is hoping to do is allow people to set themselves apart by being able to offer up their volunteer work experience.” The truth is — there are a lot of ways to use LinkedIn that people aren’t taking advantage of. According to Williams, LinkedIn Groups is a powerful means for people to connect with individuals not only in their industry but also in other industries that they are interested in. Groups also can give a user the opportunity to become a leader in their industry by participating in conversations. “You can get exposed to people who are beyond your normal realm of influence and get to know people who may, in fact, get to be able to offer you something professionally; or, you may be able to offer them something professionally,” she said. Williams told us that, as a new mom, she is involved in several groups related to professional women and working moms. Through a conversation she had about being tired, she met a sleep coach and, after talking with her, hired her. She told us that the chances of them connecting in another way would have been extremely slim. “If you can just engage in conversation and offer up tidbits of advice that prove that you’re a legitimate, helpful individual, that may turn into a real business opportunity,” Williams said. She also said that LinkedIn would continue to build products that would enhance the lives of professionals and make it easier to connect with other professionals. While it is difficult to keep up with all the social networks, Williams told us that LinkedIn should not be underutilized because it could really impact a person's career for the better. After reading this, are you going to make more time for LinkedIn?, it's not. Gradually, and shows a decidedly curvy device as the climactic image, On the other hand.
